

Dear Mother

Your long letter wants but a short answer, because I can give it a satisfactory one. I have determined to be called & that very much at your instance. Whether I shall do any good is another question. If other people could be persuaded to think as well of me as you do in your maternal partiality, I should be sure of success; & if I thought better of myself I should no doubt improve my chance if it. I am going about it this morning.

Dear Mother

I am very well at present
but a short answer because I am busy at a school now. I am at the same time dreaded by that very school from morning to night I shall do my best to be good - of the school I shall be as good as I can as well as for my own satisfaction & happiness I shall be very happy
I thought better of writing I shall be good as I can
I am very well at present

Yours affectionately
J. P. [unclear]
